The Spring Lake Hotel is a St. Louis resort, being conducted by Mr. Dyer of the Buckingham. It is one of the resorts of the east abore of Lake Michigan, salling being the chief diversion. It is reached from Chicago by the Pere Marquette road. The past week has been one of regattas. A zare is sailed here once a week, and Venstian Night was celebrated at Macatawa, twenty-five miles down the coast, during the last two days.

DEVILS LAKE.

Devils Lake, Wis., Aug. 5.—The following St. Louis people are at the Lakeview, in the South Pass of the Baraboo Mountains:

J. E. Mateer wife and son; Charles W. Standinger, wife and two children; Mrs. Lailu Runge and three children.

This is a favorite resort of St. Louis people, and a large company is expected to spend the fall months here. The lake is almost entirely surrounded by towering mountains, formed of granite blocks that seem to have been lifted by some prehistoric upheaval. There is a narrow pass at the north and south ends, through which the Northwestern road winds its way.

Eagle River is in one of the wildest sections of the Upper Wisconsin country. It is in a triangle formed of three lines of the Northwestern road and in which there are nearly 1,000 small lakes. Some of these takes are in chains of over 160 lakes, allowing fishermen to beat through from one to another. In one of these chains a wealthy lumberman operates a train of boats, composed of a parlor boat, train of boats, composed of a parior boat, sleeping boat and a dining boat. They are towed by a steam launch, the whole string being coupled together like a railroad train. The train is louded up and moves about from lake to lake, remaining out for two or three weeks, as may be desired.

Narragansett Pier, R. L. Aug. 4—Now that the Casino is ready and the reads put in condition. Narragansett is ready for the thousands of visitors who will flock here this month. The hotels are well filled and practically all the cottages, or at least the desirable ones, are taken.

The storm early in the week put a camper on outdoor sports, but with the advent of the sun and warm weather once more there have been an endless number of riding and driving parties, and fishing out in the bay. Dances are of almost nightly occurrence, two being given each week at the Casino and Hotel Mathewson, and three each week at the Sea View Pavillon, and for the children a dance is held each week at the Mathewson.

That too much sameness might be avaided in the evening amusements, one or two of the hotels have had fakirs' exhibit, and the Mathewson, to interest the scientific and literary ones, had Miss Peck, the mountain climber, deliver a lecture on South America and her experiences and discoveries in the ascent of the Andes.

Rear Admiral Terry, U. S. N., is at the Atlantic for the esson.

Miss Caroline Fellows and Miss Lackland of St. Louis, who are stopping here for the season, were guests at a luncheon given at the Casino this week by Mr. J. G. Rosengarten of Philadelphia, in honor of his nieces, the Misses Sinnickson.

Mr. Thomas F. Walsh of Colorado, who is summering at Newport, gave a luncheon at Sherry's Casino this week for his daughter. Miss Evelyn Walsh, and for Miss Pauline French, both of whom have just made their debut at Newport. Mrs. Gouvernor Kortright chaperoned the party, others present being Mesers. Vincent Walsh, George Rose and R. Nelson Buckley.

Mesers Henry and Harry A. Straten of Louisville, Ky., are recent arrivals at the Mathewson.

One of the latest St. Louisans to arrive at the pier is Mr. August A. Busch of St. Louis, who has taken apartments at the Mathewson for August.

COLORADO SPRINGS.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 3.—An approaching treat to which the citizens of both Manitou and Colorado Springs, as well as Colorado City, are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation is the Chautauqua season of this region.

The Garden of the Gods' Chautauqua will be held this year on the western edge of the far-famed garden from which it takes its name, and this place is very conveniently situated in Arensdale, which is the first approach to the Garden of the Gods between Colorado City and Manitou.

The Chautauqua is now in its fourth year, and the first two years of its enistence it was held in this same spot, than which none more auitable could be found, commanding as it does from its exaited position the grandest and most delightful views around tere.

Doctor J. R. Robinson of Colorado Springs is the president of this Chautauqua, and it will be under the management this year of James Hoffman Batten of Galesburg. Ill. Fine talent has been engaged for the season, which begins August 19 and continues through unable to appear before the Chautauqua, has signified his willingness to appear here on September 9 or 19 under the auspices of the Chautauqua.

Cupid is kept pretty busy among the Southerners in the Rockies this season. It is reported that a marriage license was issued this week to Miss Nellis Hartman, a prominent young woman of Warrensburg. Mo., and Henry Presten Rodgers, a wealthy young planter of Marrianna, Ark. Both are guests at the same hotel in Manitou, where they met for the first time only ten days ago, and no one is more surprised at the turn affairs have taken than the mother of Miss Hartman.

Miss Grace Post, formerly of Emporia, Kaz, was united in marriage July 3 to John R. Ballard of the Colorade Springs Mineral Company. And this marriage occurred on the platform of the steel tower surmounting the station at the summit of Pike's Peak. The proupertive bride and groom made the trip on burroe in company with twenty tourists, arriving at the summit at 4 o'clock in the morning. The minister, accompanied by his wife and several friends of the principals in the affair, went up on the cog road.

When the bridal party were ready for the return trip to the world below they sild down an icy slope half a mile in length to the place where they had left their burros tied to twee, only to find that the rascals had gotten loose and soamparty made their way back on foot, reaching Manitou late in the afternoon, and they declared that this novel honeymoon trip was most enjoyable.
